Cecilia García-Peñalosa is research director at the CNRS and member of the Aix-Marseille School of Economics.

Dr García-Peñalosa is Spanish and studied in the UK, where she obtained a PhD in Economics from the University of Oxford. She has taught at the Universitat Autonoma de Barcelona and was Prize Research Fellow at Nuffield College (Oxford) before joining the CNRS in 2000.

She is a fellow of CESifo (Munich), founding member of the Society for the Study of Economic Inequality (ECINEQ), council member of ECINEQ (2005-2012), and associate editor of The European Economic Review and The Journal of Economic Inequality.

Her research focuses mainly on long-term growth and on the relationship between income inequality and growth.